CHAPTER 1

א א א איכה | יִשְׁבָּה בְּדָד הָעִיר רַבָּתִי
עַם הָיְתָה כְּאַלְמָנָה רַבָּתִי בְּגוֹיִם שָׂרָתִי

ה הָיוּ צָרֶיהָ לְרֹאשׁ אֵיבֶיהָ שָׁלוּ
כִּי־יִהְיֶה הַגּוֹה עַל רֶב־פְּשָׁעֶיהָ עוֹלָלָהּ
הִלְכוּ שְׁבִי לַפְּנִי־צָר:

1:1 How | she sits alone the city once full of people.

[She has become] like a widow, the greatest [among the nations], the princess among the provinces. She is reduced to slavery.

2 'She weeps bitterly' [in the night]. Her tears run down her cheeks.

[There is none to comfort her, [from all her lovers].

Her companions have all betrayed her; they have become her enemies.

3 Judah is exiled in affliction and by hard labor.

She [sits among] the nations but she finds there no relief.

All her pursuers overtook her in her dire straits.

4 The roads to Zion are mourning for want of festival pilgrims.

[All her gateways] are deserted. Her priests are groaning.

Her maidens are afflicted; she is embittered.

5 Her oppressors have become her master; her enemies prosper.

Since God has aggrieved her for the greatness of her sins.

[Her young children] have left her as prisoners before the oppressor.

ו וַיֵּצֵא מִן בֵּית מִבְּת־צִיּוֹן

בִּקְהָל לָךְ:

1:6 Gone from the daughter of Zion, [is all her splendor].
Even [her leaders] [have become like deer] that find no pasture, that flee without strength, before their pursuer.

7 Jerusalem remembers her days of misery [and her roaming];
All [of the treasures] that were hers in the days of old [when her people] fell [into the hand of the enemy], and there was none [to help her].

The oppressor [did gaze at her] and laughed at her downfall.

8 Jerusalem has sinned very grievously. Therefore [she has become] an outcast.
[All who honored her] [now despise her], [for they have seen] her nakedness.
And she herself sighs and turns away.

9 Her uncleanness [clings to her skirts].

She never thought [this would be her end].

She descended [amazingly low]. There is no one [to comfort her].

Behold, Adonai, my affliction, because the enemy is triumphant.

10 The oppressor has spread out his hand over everything [that she treasured].

[For she saw] the nations invade [her holy place], whom [You had forbidden] to attend Your assembly.

 [They gave up] [their most precious things] [in exchange for food], to restore their life.
 See, Adonai, and behold, for I have become so despised.
 12 May [it not befall you], all you [who pass by]!
 Behold, and see if there be pain [like my pain] which was meted out to me.
 [with which] Adonai [has afflicted me] on the day [of His fierce anger].
 13 [From on high] He sent a fire into my bones, [which overpowered them].
 He spread [a net for my] feet; [He hurled me] backwards.
 [He has left me] deserted. [All day long] [I endure sickness].
 14 [Weighing me down] is the yoke of my transgressions.
 [By His hand] [they were lashed], and thrust upon my neck; It saps my strength.
 The Lord [has given me over] [into hands] that I can't withstand.
 15 The Lord has trampled all the warriors [that are in my midst].
 [He has called] [against me] an assembly to crush [my young men].
 [As in a press], the Lord has trodden fair maiden, [daughter of Judah].
 16 [For all of these things] I [am crying]. My eyes—my eyes are flowing in tears,
 [because so far] [from me] [is any comforter] to restore my soul.
 My children [are in despair] because the enemy has proved too strong.

1:17 'Zion stretches out [her hands]. [There is] [no one] [to comfort her].
God [has commanded] [concerning Jacob] [that his enemies] [should surround him].
Jerusalem [has become] [a thing unclean] among them.
18 Righteous [is He], Adonai, for I rebelled [against His word].
Listen now, [all you peoples], and behold [my agony].
My maidens and young men, walked into captivity.
19 I called [to my lovers]: they [deceived me].
My priests and my elders, [breathed their last] [inside the city],
[as they sought] food [for themselves] [to restore] their souls.
20 See, Adonai, my distress; my innards [are churning].
My heart [has turned over] within me, because I rebelled, so grievously.
Outside, the sword strikes down, At home, it's like death.
21 [They have heard] that I [am sighing]. [There is none] to give comfort to me.
All of my enemies heard of my plight and rejoiced, for it was You [who have done it].
Bring the day that you proclaimed—let them become like me.
22 Let all their evil [come before You], and You [will treat them]
[in the same way as] [you have treated me] for all my transgressions.
For great is my groaning, [final melody] and my heart is sickened.

CHAPTER 2

2:1 Alas, Adonai has darkened in his anger [the daughter of Zion].
[He has cast down] from heaven to the earth the glory of Israel, and remembered not His footstool, on the day of his anger.

2 The Lord has laid waste, showing [no pity].

All of the dwellings of Jacob He shattered [in his displeasure].

Fair Judah's stronghold He has thrown to the ground.

He profaned the kingdom, and its leaders.

3 [He cut down], [in burning anger], all the dignity of Israel.

[He turned] backward [His right hand] before the enemy.

He burned through Jacob like a flaming fire, consuming on all sides.

4 He has bent his bow [like an enemy]; poised [his right hand] like a foe.

[And He slew] [all those] [who delighted the eye].

In the tent [of the daughter of Zion] He poured out, like fire, [His great fury].

5 Adonai became [like an enemy]; He consumed Israel;

consumed [all her citadels]; destroyed her fortresses.

He increased [in the daughter of Judah] mourning and lamentation.

6 He stripped His sukkah [like it was a garden]; He shattered [His place of meeting].

He made [to be forgotten] in Zion sabbath and festival.

He spurned, in the rage of His anger, king and priest.

2:7 Adonai abhorred His altar; abandoned His sanctuary.

[He handed over] [to the enemy's hand] the walls of its citadels.

[A great noise] they made in the house of God as on the day of a festival.

8 Adonai resolved to destroy the wall [of Zion's daughter].

[He stretched out] a line. He did not draw back His hand from destroying—bringing mourning to rampart and wall, they crumble together.

9 [Sunk into] the earth [are her gates]. He has smashed her bars into pieces.

Her king and leaders [are in exile]; there is no tōrah.

[And their prophets] they find no vision from Adonai.

10 They sit on the ground, silent, the elders of fair Zion.

[They have sprinkled] dust on their heads, [and wrapped themselves] in sackcloth.

[The girls bowed] their heads to the ground—the maidens of Jerusalem.

11 My eyes [waste away] with weeping, my innards are burning,

[poured out] on the ground are my organs, at the ruin [of my daughter people].

as children—mere infants—are fainting in the squares of the city.

12 [To their mothers] they kept asking: “Where is the grain and wine?”

[As they languish] like the dying in the squares of the city.

as their souls [ebb away] in the bosoms of their mothers.

CHAPTER 3 [special melody—see note at end of this document]

3:1-3 I am the man who has seen affliction↗ by the rod of his anger.

Me—he has lead and driven↑ in darkness, not in light.

Surely on me He brings down His hand↘ the whole day long.

4-6 He wore away my flesh and skin↗, and shattered my bones.

He has besieged me and surrounded me↑ with bitterness and woe.

He has made me dwell in darkness↘ like men long dead.

7-9 He has walled me in till I can't escape↗. He has weighed me down with chains.

And when I cry and plead↑ He shuts out my prayer.

He has blocked my way with boulders↘. He has twisted my path.

10-12 He is a lurking bear to me↗, a lion in hiding.

He has filled my path with thorns↑, torn me in pieces, left me forlorn.

He has directed His bow↘ and made me the arrow's mark.

13-15 He shot into my vitals↗ the arrows of His quiver.

I am a derision to my people↑, they taunt me all day long.

He has filled me up with bitterness↘, and made me drink wormwood.

3:16-18 He has broken my teeth with gravel↗, and covered me with ashes.

He has bereft me of all peace↑; I forgot what it is to prosper.

I said, “my strength has perished↘, even my hope in God.”

19-21 Remember my afflictions and sorrow↗, the wormwood and the gall.

My soul remembers clearly↑, and is now bowed down within me.

Here’s what I’ll tell my heart↘, and so recover hope:

22-24 The kindness of the Lord has not ended↗, His mercies not exhausted.

They are new every morning↑. Raba emunatecha.

“My portion is God”, says my soul↘, thus do I hope in Him.

25-27 God is good to the one who trusts↗, to every soul that seeks Him.

It is good to wait in silence↑ for salvation from Adonai.

It is good that a man bear the yoke↘ from his youth and on.

28-30 Let him sit alone in silence↗, because God lays it upon him, to put his lips to the dust↑: perhaps there still is hope.

Let him offer his cheek to the smiter↘. and suffer all men’s taunts.

 15 The joy [in our hearts] has vanished, our dancing, [has turned into mourning].
 16 [The crown has fallen] from our heads. Woe to us, for we have sinned.
 17 [Because of this], our hearts are sickened. [This is why] our eyes grow dim.
 18 [For the mountain] of Zion, [which lies desolate], [while the foxes] [prowl over it].
 19 Yet You Adonai will sit forever [upon Your throne], through all generations.
 20 [You cannot mean] [to forget us] forever, [and forsake us] [for all time]?
 21 [Turn us back] [to Yourself God], [and we shall return]. Renew our days as of old.
 22 [You can't] [have rejected us] utterly. You have raged against us, it is enough.
 21 [repeated] [Turn us back] [to Yourself God], [and we shall return].
 [final melody] Renew our days as of old.

*This version of Lamentations has been prepared by drawing on the following translations:
The Stone Edition Tanach, JPS, H.L. Ginsberg, David Seidenberg, James Moffat, Jerusalem Bible, New King James Bible*

The trope melodies I used were taken from the book:

CHANTING THE HEBREW BIBLE (1st edn.) by Joshua R. Jacobson.

Chapter 3 of Lamentations is sung by singing each set of three verses to three melodies, in turn. I grouped each set of three verses together, as in 1-3, 4-6, etc. The first two of the three melodies end their first half (the “half-cadence”) with a high note, and the third with a “falling tone”. I have marked the corresponding syllable with an arrow:

↗ for the high note or half-cadence of the first melody, ↑ for the high note of the second melody, and ↘ for the “falling tone” of the third melody.

The Final Cadence

We use a special melody to signal the ending of each chapter of Lamentations. This melody is applied at the final (merekha-) tippeḥa segment. You'll chant this cadence slowly. This special cadence is not applied to chapter three, which is chanted to a completely different melody (see p. 107).

Chanting Chapter Three

The third chapter of Lamentations, consisting of 66 short verses, is not cantillated according to the te'amim. Instead, it is chanted to a special melody that combines every three verses into one strophe of melody. The half-cadence of each line of the strophe (indicated by the first fermata of each line) is chanted on the first word marked with zakef (or, if there is no zakef, tippeha).

Hear the chanting of chapter three on CD track 87.

Len Fellman's English readings with tropes

The purpose of this project is to translate THE SONG OF THE TORAH into English.

I work by comparing as many as ten English translations of a pasuk and creating a cantillated English sentence that sounds as much as possible like the Hebrew. They follow the Hebrew as closely as possible, word for word and trope by trope. The English language has an amazing flexibility, making it possible to make the English word order match that of the Hebrew quite well, allowing for some “poetic licence”, and some willingness on the part of the listener to be “carried” by the melody more than by the English syntax. The translation needs to sound good when chanted, but not necessarily when spoken or read.

Unlike most translations, these “transtropilations” are not intended to be a substitute for the Hebrew. On the contrary, they are meant to provide a “window” into the Hebrew text and its musical expression. My ideal listener knows enough Hebrew and has enough interest to follow the Hebrew in a bilingual text while the leyner is chanting the English version, to bring the Hebrew text to life, both verbally and musically. For this purpose I use exactly the same tropes in the English as in the Hebrew (almost always on the corresponding English word).

The texts can be used to do consecutive translation, i.e. leyning a phrase in Hebrew, followed by the corresponding phrase sung in English. Some of my recordings demonstrate this. I do this frequently when leyning for groups that either know little Hebrew, or that don't have a chumash in front of them.

I favor literal translations (e.g. “cut a covenant”) to call attention to Hebrew idioms, and towards simpler (even if less accurate) words (e.g. Ex. 12:7 “beam above the door” rather than “lintel”) to be easier to follow. If my readings provoke a discussion of the Hebrew, I consider that as justification for using less-than-idiomatic English. I try to find just the right balance between “literalness” and “listenable-ness”. A primary goal is throwing light on the Hebrew syntax.

In order to adapt the trope symbols to a left-to-right language like English, I reversed the direction of the trope symbols:

mercha tipcha munach tevir mapakh or yetiv kadma or pashta gersh gershayim telisha katana telisha gedola

(Generally speaking the conjunctive tropes such as mercha, munach, mapakh, kadma, and telisha katana “lean toward” the words they “conjoin” to, while the disjunctive tropes such as tipcha, gersh, gershayim, and telisha gedola “lean away” from the words that follow, so as to create a sense of separation.)

The trope symbol is normally placed under the accented syllable, unless it is a pre-positive accent (telisha gedola, placed at the beginning of the word or phrase) or a post-positive one (telisha katana or pashta, placed at the end of the word or phrase).

The Hebrew text frequently puts a makkeph (which is like a hyphen) between words in order to treat them as a single word to be chanted. I use a different system for English: If an entire English phrase is to be chanted to a single trope melody, I place it between grey brackets, as in this phrase from the Book of Lamentations:

[clings to her skirts]

The leyner is invited to fit this phrase to the Eicha “rivi'i” melody in whatever way seems most natural.

As a variant of the “grey bracket” device, I indicate the following pairs of tropes by “wrapping them around” the phrase which will have the combined melody:

mercha/tipcha	kadma/geresh (or: azla, etc.)	mercha siluk
Renew our days	She weeps bitterly	a fire-offering to God

Again, the leyner should decide on the most natural way to fit the phrase to the combined trope melody.

I put words in gray which I consider essential but which don’t strictly match the Hebrew. I also “pad” some phrases with extra words in gray to fill out a musical phrase nicely. Different trope systems vary widely in the length of the musical phrase used, so the words in gray may or not be used depending on the leyner’s cantillation system. In particular, the tropes telisha g’dola (ר), legarmeh, metigah-zakef, and pazer vary widely in the musical phrases used for chanting. (And please indulge me in my whimsical treatments of shalshelet.)

“Metigah-zakef” is a special trope combination which can be recognized by a kadma and a zakef katon appearing on the same Hebrew word (again, a makkeph makes two words into one). (There are several examples in Genesis 18 & 19, beginning with 18:16). I indicate this by placing the corresponding English phrase in grey brackets:

[Take heed—take care for yourself]

In some trope systems (notably cantor Moshe Haschel in “Navigating the Bible II”) this is given a very distinctive melody—for which purpose extra syllables fill out the musical phrase (as in “take care” in this example). Haschel’s system also chants the trope munach as legarmeh more often than other systems do.

I don’t write a single word of translation without first hearing the melody of the phrase in my mind, following one of two trope systems: The one by Portnoy and Wolff (The Art of Cantillation) or the one by Joshua R. Jacobson (Chanting the Hebrew Bible).

I transcribe the name יהוה as YHWH (in small caps). I almost always chant this as yud-hey-vav-hey, which I have discovered fits marvelously into several of the trope melodies. But of course the leyner can choose to pronounce it as “God” or “Adonai”.
